

Korea Exchange Launched New Fixed-Income Securities Website

- Korea Exchange (KRX, Chairman & CEO: Ji-won Jung) launched a new fixed-income securities website, hereinafter "FI-website", for foreign users on 2 July, 2018. The site can be accessed at bond.krx.co.kr.
- The FI-website centralized information related to the KRX fixed-income market dispersed on the KRX official English website (global.krx.co.kr). It is expected to satisfy foreign users who had difficulties in finding fixed-income information on the existing website displaying informations by themes, not by instruments.
- KRX also made new contents about foreign investment, listing foreign bonds, and FAQ for foreign users such as investors, issuers, or researchers. Hence, a guide to KRX regulations for fixed-income market segments has been added to the FI-website for improving the accessibility of information.
- In other hand, KRX announced new English names of its four segments of the fixed-income market; KRX BondsAll, KRX LPB, KRX KTB and KRX Repo. KRX BondsAll is an exchange market for all investors where all listed bonds are traded; KRX LPB is a special purpose market for promoting the liquidity of License & Permit Bonds; KRX KTB is an inter-dealer market where Government bond Dealers trade Korea Treasury Bonds; and KRX Repo in an exchange market for trading of bonds repurchase agreement (Repo).
- KRX will step up its effort to get feedback from global bond issuers, international organizations related to fixed-income, etc. and supplement continuously. Subsequently KRX will roll out a section dedicated for green bonds on the FI-website for supporting domestic green finance market by enhancing public confidence and visibility of green bonds.
